

Detective Johnson

Detective Johnson was assigned to be Heather Hartman's babysitter, er, bodyguard when she needed police protection from the Fernwood mass murderer.

He was bumbling and was clumsy in conversation. Still, he was likable.

Martha Shumway liked him most. When her husband George was missing, Detective Johnson was on the case. He would prefer that George stay missing because he proposed marriage to Mary's mother Martha. Martha wanted to accept, but in the long run, she declined.

Detective Johnson was played by Ron Feinberg.
